Commission, CRB discuss housing

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE Belle Glade City Commission and members of the Palm Beach County Community Relations Board met Monday night, November 1, to discuss the housing problems in the southwest section of the city.

The two boards, which often found themselves at odds in the past, discussed the problems and possible solutions calmly, with the only hint of anger coming from political activist Al Zack, who attended part of the meeting.

The Community Relations Board and the city commissioners examined the four proposals the board had made to the county commission and discussed ways in which the board could help the city meet those recommendations.

The county commission earlier this year had adopted the recommendations and authorized the board to meet with the city commission and offer its assistance.

"We want to keep peace and harmony in our community," said Community Relations Board Chairman Carlton Bryant. "We consider Palm Beach County as one big community. We all want to do everything we can to make the community more harmonious."

Rabbi Alan Sherman, the board's vice chairman, said the county is offering a "coordination of services" to help the city in its efforts in the housing area.

The board, which Bryant said has met in Belle Glade more than any other municipality, was primarily concerned with the SW Fifth through SW Seventh Street areas.

Bryant said the board didn't make up the name "snake pit" for the area, but that residents in the area had called it that.

City Community Development Director Remar M. Harvin said the only local person he had heard call the area the "snake pit" was Al Zack, and that other residents call it "the Fifth Street area."

Bryant said he would call the area the "slum section. Then I know I'm right."

Mayor Thomas L. Altman said most of the board's recommendations were good suggestions but added that "virtually every item" on the list was already recognized by the city and being worked on before the board recommended them. The board was founded after the 1980 riots in Miami to promote harmony among the various ethnic and racial groups in the county. Altman objected to the way the coastal media covered the board's proceedings in the Belle Glade area.

"The inflammatory way the press covered it was counter to that (the board's mission)," said Altman. Bryant said the board recognized that media coverage had hurt the relationship between the two bodies, and said that was the reason the coast television stations and The Post were asked not to attend the meeting.

He also admitted the board may suffer from a lack of information from the city, saying that the high population density in the Fifth Street area made it a "prime target" for crime, but that the board didn't investigate the crime rate.

"We're more concerned with having a people-oriented thing," he said.

Altman addressed the board's recommendations one by one, telling the board members what action or objections the city had taken.

The board had recommended that the city establish a task force to revise the housing code. The city recently completed a review and revision of the city housing code, a process that Harvin had been working on for about a year, said Altman.

He said he thinks the new code will be more enforceable and realistic.

"We're constantly faced with the dilemma 'what do we do?'" said Altman.

Board members who have toured the Fifth Street area could see that the city could probably condemn many buildings and order evacuation, but the city would then be faced with the problem of relocating the displaced residents, he said.

To meet that problem the city has been working with the United States housing and Urban Development program for seven years. This year, the city will be working through the county Community Development program instead of directly with HUD, and is anticipating an increase in revenues for the projects, said Altman.

The city has been allocated about $400,000 annually from HUD, but, working through the county this year, is hoping to see that increased possibility up to $700,000, he said.

He said Harvin has been pursuing other funding sources when they become available, but admitted that there is only so far the limited resources granted the city from the federal government and its own sources will go.

He said the city has been using available funds to supply rehabilitated housing and upgrade neighborhoods, mostly in the fringe areas of the Fifth Street area, under HUD's guidance and consent.

"It's necessary to understand the complexities of the housing situations," said Altman. "It didn't get that way overnight, and we have found, after beating our heads, that we can't correct it overnight."

He added that the city's Community Development staff is now trained and "prepared to tackle a bigger bite out of that apple."

Bryant said the board didn't know of the progress the city was making and said that may be the problem with the coastal media as well. Altman and Bryant both agreed that reports on the progress the city was making in meeting the goals and recommendations could possibly be sent to the board for release to the media on the coast, thus improving the city's "image problem."

Bryant and Sherman also suggested the city establish a local Community Relations Board. Such a board could eliminate "90 percent of the problems" Bryant said. He added that there are going to be three open spots for Commissioner Bill Bailey to appoint to the county board, and said the Glades area needs some "serious residents" on the board.

Sherman suggested that a local resident appointed to a governor's commission be asked to assist in "political problems" such as obtaining grants under new federal programs.

"Like most boards, we don't have a surplus of folks beating our door down to serve," said Harvin of the suggestion to appoint a local Community Relations Board.

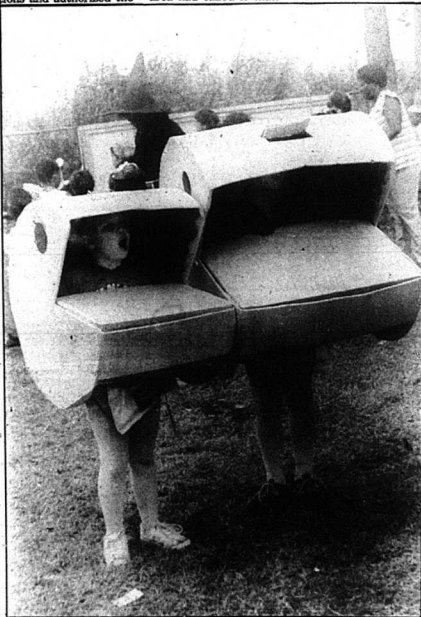

Altman questioned whether the fact that the city commission appointed the board would hurt its credibility, but both Bryant and Sherman said that once the city's residents see that the board members are serious and not a "rubber stamp" for the commission, they would accept it.

Bryant also suggested that Zack be appointed to the board so he could work for adoption of his proposals.

Zack suggested at the meeting that the city sell the golf course to the county in exchange for 43 acres of land to the southwest of the city. The county bought that land for development into a recreation area, but no work has been done on it so far. Zack suggested the city could use the land for development into housing.

The county can't develop housing on the land

Pilot wins suit

BELLE GLADE Commercial beekeepers will not receive compensation for losses they say were caused by aerial spraying for mosquitoes by a Belle Glade firm in September 1981.

The spraying was carried out between Sept. 4 through 7, 1981, by Environmental Aviation Services Inc., which was named as the defendant in the suit along with pilot Howard Baker.

A jury of three men and three women deliberated just 65 minutes Monday before reaching the verdict in the $160,000 suit filed in Palm Beach County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by beekeepers Horace Bell, William Belcher, William Cobb and Debra Cobb. The four charged that spraying by the Palm Beach County Mosquito Control was done "contrary to accepted industry standards" for the use of the pesticide Dibrom.

The beekeepers maintained that the federally controlled pesticide Dibrom can only be sprayed when the wind velocity is 10 mph or less, and the wind was actually eleven and a half mph when the spraying was performed.

They said the $80,000 paid Barker for the three-day spraying sweep was unnecessary because the mosquitoes never posed a health hazard and most would have died naturally in nine days, anyway.

Mrk Boyd, the attorney for Environment

Aviation said the beekeepers did not tell anyone where their hives were.

"They could have covered their hives or moved them," he said.

He said the beekeepers had ample warning to take precautions that would have prevented the death of the bees.

Harvey Pichardman, attorney for the beekeepers, said moving the hives was impossible with such short notice, and covering them would have suffocated the bees.

"We had a fair judge and he gave us a fair trial," said Richman, "but we were not allowed to give the jury information that might have influenced its decision."

"What the jury found was that beekeepers have a definite concern and they have the right to raise their bees. But there is also going to be government that is concerned with the general health and safety of the community," said Boyd.

The defendants argued that they were compelled under a 1981 court order, issued by Circuit Judge Vaughn Rudnick to spray in the early evening as they did. The beekeepers support nighttime spraying, which, they say, is more effective in killing mosquitoes and less damaging to bees.

The Palm Beach County Commission, in late September 1981 ordered that all spraying be done after dark, in compliance with the beekeepers' wishes.

a decision within two weeks. Altman said he now expects that decision to take another week.

He added that he thinks Strang will probably take the job as Rolfe Wagner's replacement. Wagner left Wednesday, Oct. 27, to take a job as city manager of Aztec, New Mexico.

"I feel, from the way (Strang's) talking, real confident that he's coming," said Altman.

BELLE GLADE - Tommy Strang's decision on whether or not to accept an offer to hire on as Belle Glade's city manager isn't expected until after next week's meeting of the board of directors of Briley, Wild and Associates, according to Belle Glade Mayor Thomas L. Altman.

Strang, an engineer with the company, was offered the job about three weeks ago and told the city commissioners at the time that he would make

City prudent in fee increases

The increases to the deposits and hookup fees for Belle Glade city utilities that the city commission recently approved was purposely held lower than estimates indicated necessary, in the hopes that it would do the job.

It might. But we doubt it. Doubling the deposit to $40 probably will have no effect on the average delinquent utility customer. The average delinquent bill is $68.39, and those customers who actually have their city utilities discontinued owe an average of $72.13.

We don't think someone who is willing to lose a $20 deposit by skipping out on a $70 bill will hesitate too long to do the same to a $40 deposit.

We wish it weren't so, but reality makes us think otherwise. Still, we understand the commissioners' problem of increasing the burden on the majority of customers, who are honest and pay their bills on time.

Is it fair to tax them excessively to deal with a "few deadbeats," as Mayor Thomas L. Altman phrased it.

The commissioners probably acted prudently in doubling the $20 water service deposit, for if it doesn't work, they can always go back and raise it.

We hope they won't have to.

CoTran adds route

BELLE GLADE: CoTran buses stop at a new location in the city starting this week, giving residents the opportunity to park their automobiles while they use the bus.

Since Monday, Nov. 1, CoTran buses providing service to West Palm Beach and various points in the Glades area, stop on South Canal Street behind the Ben Franklin store. Users of the service can park automobiles in the parking lot and use the bus, said CoTran Road Supervisor Gabriel Santa-marina.

Buses to West Palm Beach stop at the location at 6:42 a.m. and 11:52 a.m.

the Poly-Fonator, a device that lets the children hear the word as well as feel the vibrations when they repeat the sound whether or not they have correctly repeated the word," Ms. Cook told the parents and staff. She said they had good success with the use of the Poly-Fonator.

The Belle Glade Business and Professional Women's Club donated half the funding to buy the TTY System for Gove Elementary, Lake Shore Middle, as well as purchase the system personally for Rosa Nash, Gove Elementary teacher for the hearing impaired.

Rosa Nash showed the group the adapter to caption films used on the television set. She told them that until recently, deaf and hearing-impaired individuals could not get a closed caption for the hearing impaired news programs. Now ABC offers "World News Tonight" in closed caption.

Mrs. Nash said she has been totally deaf for 10 years. "I had a very hard time the first few years adjusting. I thought I was going to go crazy," she told the group that even now she has some problems.

Mrs. Nash said she has been totally deaf for 10 years. "I had a very hard time the first few years adjusting. I thought I was going to go crazy," she told the group that even now she has some problems.

Before I got the TTY System, if I wanted to tell someone something, I had to get in my car and go to their house to tell them. I made a lot of long distance calls to family when I first got the system. I thought my phone bill was going to be very high, but it wasn't," she said.

Mrs. Nash was the Belle Glade postmaster for 10 years before becoming the instructor at Gove. She has been the deaf instructor at Gove Elementary for 10 years.

Save your old punctuation marks

Anybody who collects obsolete thingamabobs is overjoyed to acquire a half-dozen of them free in a single week.

I am overjoyed. Last week I added six unbroken apostrophes in a single day to my collection of antique punctuation marks. Picked them all up in one place at one time: Halloween.

Eight unused 's is quite a rare find. If there's anything rarer than the ' in Halloween, it's the "today." You have to be pretty old to remember when today was spelled to-day.

Collecting antiquated punctuation marks isn't as popular as acquiring old Wedgwood, classic cars or baseball cards. For one thing, there's no market for antique punctuation. But I like it as a hobby because it doesn't take up any room. Any unused corner of my mind will do to store it in and I'm fortunate in having a mind with a lot of unused space in it.

So now that you're entranced by the romance of collecting old punctuation marks, I'd like you to see my exhibit of that endangered species: the diersis. I can't show you an actual one because on typesetting equipment for mass production, the diersis is already extinct. There's no diersis button to push on the machine, which may be the reason it's extinct. We'll have to use a: instead, turn it on its side, and then place it over a vowel. The diersis, you may recall, used to hang over the second "o" in the word cooperate, for example, so people wouldn't go "round saying cooperate. Either people got brighter and stopped saying cooperate or nobody cares anymore how you say it. Naive is still supposed to wear one over the i, if you can find one to put up there. He-leet gets along without one by jamming a hyphen between the two e's. But the fact is, you can hardly find diersis in good condition anymore except in $49 books

AILS A DEWING AND WHAT NOT

Before you decide to start your own collection of old punctuation marks, however, there are some things you need to know. All the surplus punctuation marks you find lying around aren't necessarily authentic antiques. Take the periods that get stuck in between T and V, for instance. They're fakes. TV isn't an abbreviation for Tele Vision. There are scads of phony apostrophes piling up, too, from writers using the contraction it's for the possessive its. These are illegal and should be turned over to the nearest English teacher. (If there isn't an English teacher near you, this is part of your problem.)

How does a punctuation mark get to be obsolete, some of you may be still awake enough to ask. Good question. But no answer. The latest changes in punctuation aren't displayed in the post office — like special issue stamps or pictures of wanted criminals. They are the result of time and usage. Maybe they wear out. Or maybe English teachers wear out trying to get pupils to use them. Or maybe they just get mislaid and nobody notices until it's too late to matter.

For those of you who now think you'd like to be old punctuation mark collectors, a good item to start collecting is the semi-colon, which looks like ;. These are fast going out of style. They were once used to connect two related independent clauses. Then along came TV and nobody had time to read long sentences tied together. There is only time to read short simple sentences during commercials. Newspapers also tend toward being simple these days and use either two short sentences or keep sentences totally unrelated.

So hang on to those old semi-colons; they're a bit of nostalgia — a reminder of the days when people had time to read long sentences with semi-colons, insert apostrophes, and dot in a diersis if it would help things.

BOILER PLATE

As clear as water

It's been said before that Glades residents need to put aside their differences and get closer politically.

We can all recognize common problems that can be addressed more powerfully with a united voice: poor roads, lack of home-grown representation in the state house or senate, and water.

We may not immediately think water is a problem, but just think back a few months when we had one of our all-time worst droughts.

It's almost difficult to remember how bad it was. Farmers were told when they could irrigate and how much, commercial fishermen were told to put their nets away until further notice, and residents were told when to water their lawns and not to waste water washing cars.

In fact, Glades residents who live next to Lake Okeechobee and are thrifter with their water than their cousins on the coast, sometimes had more severe restrictions on their water use than city folks.

The situation was scary at times. I'll never forget an airplane ride with Bob Hegley and trying to peer through a dense cloud of smoke to see a giant fire consuming thousands of acres of lake bottom down below.

When last I was able to see the ground, I saw a ribbon of flame stretching for miles, virtually from Moore Haven to South Bay.

On the ground, Clewiston firemen and an army of volunteers turned back a fire which almost got to the homes on the Ridge.

The hot, black smoke was so thick that it burned the lungs, took away the breath, and irritated the eyes.

At that time, we all wondered when the seemingly endless drought would end. We knew it had to sometime. And when it did, how much lake would be left.

Interest in Lake Okeechobee, now at full level, has since died, especially on the coast.

Their acquifers full and citizens complaining about frequent rain, Lake Okeechobee is now part of another world for the urban dweller.

It seems an endless cycle this water problem, either too much or too little of it.

And while few may show interest in water these days, it's a fact that one day it will be back on the front pages of papers all over Florida.

Once again the residents of Florida's coastal cities will covet the water from the Glades.

And when that time comes, there should be a unity of purpose to ensure that Glades residents are not sacrificed to quench the urban thirst.

Housing

because it bought it with a bond issue for one purpose of creating a recreation area.

Another suggestion from the board that the city establish a private industry into the area was partially laid back onto the board members' laps.

The city has been working at developing the means to attract diversified industry to the area, but "that's a hard thing to do," said Altman.

The city has gone the "extramile" by trying to establish the mechanism necessary to obtain industrial development bonds and Urban Development Action Grants. Altman said he has seen "examples of less attractive cities using government powers to compete effectively" for industries.

He said this was one area where the board could best help the city with the county.

The county had rejected establishing an Industrial Development Bonds board to help cities obtain bonds that could attract industries, forcing Belle Glade to establish its own mechanism to obtain the bonds.

"We spent nine months plowing through state regulations to do that," said Altman.

Sherman suggested the city outline a proposal to create a county board and the Community Relations Board could make it up at the next meeting. It could possibly recommend to the county commission that it establish a board in the future.

"That could help every city in the county," said Altman.

Local growers must be convinced that a diversified labor pool could decrease their costs because they wouldn't have to pay for someone to come from the coast if they needed technical assistance, said Bryant.

"Convince the big firms in the area that they will be incorporated into industrial diversification," said Bryant.

The city had already worked at expanding its western boundaries for housing development, said Altman, citing the city's use of its own funds to develop the Sugar Subdivision, selling lots at a loss.

He said there future plans that haven't been finalized to expand that boundary.

The city and board disagreed on only one of the proposals. The Community Relations Board suggested that the city annex the Okeechobee Center housing project to the south of the city to give the residents there city citizenship and voting rights.

Altman said that the annexation wasn't practical for two reasons: the state wouldn't allow it because it isn't contiguous with city boundaries and it was economically impractical.

Bryant said the residents in the area want annexation and the services the city would provide, and want to pay taxes to the city.

Altman and Harvin pointed out that the authority is owned by the federal government, so it is exempt from ad valorem taxes.

"I just believe that if the process of annexation took place here in Belle Glade, you would have one of the most supportive groups of citizens politically and economically," said Harvin.

"I'm proud of you say those residents want to pay taxes," said Harvin. "In what form would those taxes take?"

Board member Dan Calloway then suggested the city purchase the Belle Glade Housing Authority Development so it could collect taxes on it.

"How are we gonna collect taxes on city owned property," asked City Commissioner George Goforth, Jr.

Sherman and Bryant asked what reason the city used to annex the Osceola Center development, another authority owned development in the north section of the city. The city annexed it in the 1940s.

"I would suspect that it was politically motivated at the time," said Altman. "That doesn't make another politically motivated annexation valid."

Sherman said he thought a politically motivated annexation was valid.

Altman disagreed, saying the biggest factor in considering annexation should be economic. If the city must supply services such as police and fire protection, it should expand its tax base through that annexation to help defray the costs of those services.

He said the decision to annex the Osceola Center has resulted in the rest of the city funding the services for that group of residents, and said he thought the annexation was wrong.

The meeting broke up at about 9:30. "My feeling, from sitting here, is a very positive feeling," said Sherman, who was chairman of the Community Relations Board until recently.

"I feel good," agreed Bryant.

"We will do our best to carry out our functions and our responsibility," added Sherman.

Before breaking up, the city commissioners and the board members agreed to schedule a tour of areas the city had been working on.

BELLE GLADE—Fred Diaz, executive director of Florida Community Health Centers in the seven county area surrounding Lake Okechobee, will speak at the Community Services meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 2:30 p.m., in Bryant Auditorium at the Glades Office Building.

Have you wondered what the Birthing Center is all about at Glades General Hospital? Actually, it is termed the "Glades Childbirth Services", and is now available at Glades General Hospital, with a newly remodeled annex to be used in April, 1983, adjacent to the hospital. The concept is one of the team care consisting of nurse-midwife and physician.

Diaz has a background of education in the field of nursing and a master's degree in Public Health from U.C.L.A. For approximately six years, he has been director of the Florida Community Health Centers.

The program is open to the public.

Palm Beach County Social Services is coordinating the program. Call 986-1680, if there are any questions.

Football season opens

Football at Lake Shore has gotten under way during the last week and the Roadrunners are geared up for another championship season. Head Coach Benny Murvin took 33 players into the season facing a tough county-wide schedule.

"Lake Shore has won the County Championship two of the past three years and we're hungry for the title again," said Murvin. "I feel like we've got as good a chance as any team in the county."

Experienced players returning from last year's squad include Walter Tucker, Eddie Bryant, Curtis Brown, Freddy Hall, Norman Dukes and Jimmy Spencer.

Letvin to treat children

BELLE GLADE—As part of its continuing audience development program, Regional Arts Foundation will return the celebrated pianist, Theodore Letvin, for over 6,000 school children during November.

On Thursday, Nov. 11 at 7:30 p.m., Letvin will be performing on the piano for an audience of children and parents at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center. He will perform from Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" and other works. Tickets for this event are $2 for adults and $1 for students or children. Reserved seats may be secured by calling the Palm Beach Junior College at 996-3055.

Mr. Letvin is donating his services for this special family concert to stimulate interest in the arts in the West area of Palm Beach County.

In addition to his past concert appearances in the Palm Beaches, Letvin has a unique tie to this area in that during World War II he was stationed in the Palm Beaches and was barracked at the old Baltimore Hotel.

Last October he appeared before almost 2,500 school children at the West Palm Beach Auditorium and at Pahokee High School.

Letvin's return is the beginning of this season's Young Folks Development projects which are sponsored by Regional Arts Foundation, the Palm Beach County School Board, the Palm Beach Community Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Baumritter, IATSE, Local 623, stagehands union and in part by the National Endow-

The Lake Shore Chapter of Future Farmers of America held an inaugural meeting Tuesday to elect officers and plan for this year's activities.

The club plans trips to several contests this year beginning with the Livestock and Dairy Judging Contest at the South Florida Fair in February.

"We plan to practice hard to improve on our high score in Dairy Judging last year," said newly elected president, Tony Kendrick. "We think our sponsors are teaching us the things we'll need to win this year."

The Lake Shore Chapter's new officers are as follows: President: Tony Kendrick, Vice President: Tommie Gilbert, Treasurer: Tony McCrea, and Secretary: Jay Gurganus.

The local chapter's sponsors are James Harrington and Hiawatha Plain.

Mrs. Wedgworth new PBJC Foundation member

BELLE GLADE—Ruth S. Wedgworth, Belle Glade, president of Wedgworth's Inc., was recently elected to the Palm Beach Junior College Foundation, according to Mary Keanie Montgomery, president.

Mrs. Wedgworth, who attended Michigan State University, has Honorary Doctor of Laws and Honorary Doctor of Humanities

Degrees from the University of Florida. She is a member of the Belle Glade Woman's Club, the Belle Glade Garden Study Club, as well as PEO and Beta Sigma Phi.

Her three children include: Mrs. J.T. Boynton (Helen Jean); George H. Wedgworth; and Mrs. John Oetzman (Barbara).

E.T. VISITS PAHOKEE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL. Carlo Raineri, Jr., an artistic talented kindergarten student at the school drew E.T. on the door of Mrs. Sandra Jarriel's classroom door in observance of Halloween. Carlo, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Raineri, Sr., had no problem with what E.T. looks like. Carlo said he has seen his favorite movie three times.

Eleanor Roosevelt play set

BELLE GLADE—FIRST LADY, Performing Arts Repertory Theatre's new musical about Eleanor Roosevelt, will be playing at Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center on Friday, Nov. 12 at 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock under the auspices of the Palm Beach Junior College.

This lively, fascinating show spans the years from Eleanor's childhood through 1928, when her husband, Franklin, decided to run for governor of New York State.

FIRST LADY tells the touching story of Eleanor's struggle to overcome the shyness and unhappiness of her girlhood and portrays her eventual triumph as a young woman of great strength and character. The quintessential humanitarian who won the hearts of all who knew her. Peopled with such colorful Roosevelt as her charming father, Elliot; the dashing young Franklin; the tempestuous Alice; and even a touch of President Teddy, this high-spirited musical is a warm and very moving tribute to a great lady. The show opens on Eleanor's lonely childhood and her boarding school days in England. Upon return to America, she becomes interested in social work in New York City's slums and then meets handsome young FDR. As different as they are in temperament, outlook, and style, they fall in love and marry.

From there Eleanor's story follows a fascinating series of twists and turns, as her domineering mother-in-law, a growing family, and the pressures of FDR's public life make great and unexpected demands on her. The choices she faces and the decisions she makes give this marvelous story an uplifting, triumphant ending.

Written by the same team who created PART'S HIT, TEDDY ROOSEVELT, FIRST LADY is a splendid combination of a memorable story, colorful characters and outstanding music.

Grove, East Lake Middle Glades Day, Christian Day, St. Peters, Rosenwald and Gladeview are some of the schools who have made reservations to see this production. Tickets are $2.00, per student.

November 5.

Again, for reservations and/or ticket information, contact Judy Schiele at Palm Beach Junior College or phone 996-3055.

Dr. Moreau to be presented by GDS

BELLE GLADE—"Crazy, Mixed-Up Island of Dr. Moreau" was recently presented by the Glades Day School Junior High Drama class.

This wild comedy spoof based on the H.G. Wells classic, The Island of Dr. Moreau, was performed for elementary and junior high school students Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 20 and 21.

The part of Dr. Moreau, the mad scientist, was played by Jesse Hammel while Russ Poole portrayed Montgomery, an unwilling helper. Amy Creech was cast as Dr. Moreau's admiring assistant.

Other members of the cast included Diego Hernandez as a Pekingest pup now in human form; Lori Blanchard, Mech Garcia, Meekie Gomez, and Tom Schlechter as a group of show people shipwrecked on the island; Tony Agnew, Claudia Bueno, Bryan Burch, Jeri-Ann Haulcomb, and Eric Pitts as the Beast-people; Olga Hayes as a love-sick cabin; Tommy Dodgen as Thing-from-the-Forest; and Susan Meeks as Person-from-the-Mailboat. Russ Poole played the theme song "Give My Regards to Broadway," on his electric guitar.

Mr. William M. Brayton directed the production and Jeannette Gonzales and Lata Marlow were the assistants.

Asolo to present 'Angel Street' at Cultural Arts Center

PARASOTA—Five veteran Asolo State Theater actors are ready to keep you on the edges of your seats with sheer terror when "Angel Street," Asolo's 1982 mainstage thriller, gives a one-time-only performance in Belle Glade at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center on Friday, Nov. 5, with curtains at 8 p.m., under the local sponsorship of Palm Beach Junior College.

Reserved seats for this masterpiece of suspense and intrigue may be secured by phoning 996-3055 or by visiting the college or the Golden Charm Jewelers. Tickets are on sale now for $7.00.

"Angel Street," also known as "Gaslight," is the gripping tale of how a beautiful, young wife, Bella, is methodically being driven insane by her charming but diabolical husband, Jack Manningham, until police Inspector Rough comes on the scene to help solve the puzzle of a 15-year old murder and a fortune in missing rubies. Adding to the action are the kind housekeeper, Elizabeth; and the insulating maid, Nancy. Asolo's cast for this production is a stellar one.

Robert Murch (Jack Manningham) has over 25 major Asolo roles to his credit. Patricia Oetken (Bella Manningham) delighted Asolo's 79 audiences with various roles.

The New York based actress most recently appeared as Helena in "Look Back in Anger" at the Separate Theatre Company, and was featured in television's "Texas" and "Another World."

Bradford Wallace (Inspector Rough), Asolo's Resident Actor/Teacher for nine years and a beloved company member for 14 seasons is joyously welcomed back to Asolo's resident company after a year-and-a-half hiatus in the "business" world.

Bette Oliver (Elizabeth), in eight consecutive Asolo seasons, has been acclaimed for over 20 major roles including Mrs. Fisher in "The Show Off," and as Ethel Thayer in "On Golden Pond."

Her career in radio, television, and stage has taken her throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Carolyn Ann Milay (Nancy) was widely praised for her portrayals of Madge Owens in "Picnic" and Susan Walker in "Once In A Lifetime" during Asolo's 1981 season.

Asolo's mainstage/touring production of "Angel Street" was directed by Isa Thomas. Design credits go to Jeffrey Dean for scenery and Catherine King for costumes. Linda M. DiGabriele serves as tour director. The on-the-road crew, backing up performances of the all-star Asolo cast, include Dolly Meenan as stage manager and Laurie Brickley as company manager.

The Asolo State Theater's production of "Angel Street" will appear in 15 Florida, two Alabama, two Georgia, and one each North Carolina, Texas, and Ohio locations, from mid-October through mid-December, including this one in Belle Glade on Friday,

IN THE CHURCH OF YOUR CHOICE

To preserve you from decay, heal your wounds, add a little flavor to life and make you thirsty...

A PINCH OF SALT

Rev. Robert W. Carlson

A PINCH OF SALT. To you that may seem like a strange title for a newspaper column, but it clearly expresses my purpose for writing these articles.

Salt has always been used as an effective preservative of food. Since we live in a time of spiritual, moral, social and economic decay, it is my prayer that the words of this column will help to preserve your life and family.

Salt is a powerful antiseptic. We gargle salt water for a sore throat, and the staff of an Emergency Room washes an open wound with a saline solution, because salt possesses healing properties. May the words of this column bring healing to your heart and mind.

Salt is the most commonly used seasoning; food never tastes quite right without it. And it makes you thirsty. That's what I want this column to accomplish. As you read these articles, I hope life will be just a little bit more flavorful, and you will begin to thirst more than ever for the living water that Jesus offers.

A pinch of salt.

Man killed while directing traffic

SOUTH BAY A 32 year old man was killed when an automobile struck him as he directed traffic Sunday, October 31.

According to Florida Highway Patrol reports, Jean Alcinder of 526 SW B Place was struck by an unknown vehicle as he flagged traffic at the intersection of US 27 and county road 827 at about 5 p.m. on Halloween.

Lido Club burns down Tuesday

PAHOKEE The landmark Lido Club on 441 just outside the Pahokee City limits burnt to the ground early Tuesday morning, November 2.

The Pahokee, Canal Point and state forestry service fire departments battled the blaze from about 1:15 a.m. to 5:30 a.m. in a successful effort to prevent the fire from spreading to surrounding structures, according to Pahokee Fire Chief Cecil Phillips.

The county sheriff's office is taking charge of the fire.

Funeral services held for Bentley

VIRGIL BENTLEY

Virgil Bentley 71 residing at the Belle Glade Country Club on State Rd. 717, died October 27, at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach. He was a native of Lynn, Kentucky and he came to Belle Glade 10 years ago from Troy, Ohio. During World War II Mr. Bentley served in the U.S. Army as Private First Class. He served with the 236th General Hospital as Medical Aidman in the European Theatre. Prior to his retirement, he was employed by the Brothers Meat Packing Co. in Troy, Ohio.

His survivors include three brothers; Cecil I. Bentley of South Bay, Benjamin J. Bentley of Tippichy, Ohio, and Ishmael Bentley of Troy, Ohio. Three sisters; Phyllis Hughes of Belle Glade, Edna Collette and Thelma Abdon of Troy, Ohio.

Funeral services were held at the Mixon Funeral Home November 1st at 10:00 A.M. with Rev. F.T. Mason, pastor of the Church of God in Belle Glades, officiating.

Pallbearers were; Terry Manson, Dennis Bentley, Lonny Joe Hughes, Johnny Pender, Ronnie Bentley, Tommy Miller and Danny Ray Hartwick.

Interment followed at Port Mayaca Cemetery in Martin County, Mixon Funeral Home in Belle Glade was in charge of arrangements.

SANDY COOK, Hearing Impaired instructor for Lake Shore Elementary and Gladeview Elementary shows a student how to use the Poly-Fonator. This instrument allows the student to hear the amplified world as well as feel the vibrations on a disc held against the chest.

Flu season is approaching

The influenza season is approaching and those people at high risk of complications should now be considering vaccination. Because influenza is usually milder in healthy young adults and children, routine vaccination of children and adults is not recommended. However, people of any age with chronic conditions (diabetes, heart disease, lung disease, kidney disease, severe anemia, or who have chronic illnesses or are taking medications which lower the body's resistance to infection) and those adults 65 years of age and older should be vaccinated because they are at greatest risk of complications or death if they catch influenza. To illustrate the seriousness of this disease, it is estimated that more than 200,000 people in the United States have died as a result of the influenza epidemics in the past 14 years.

Influenza vaccine has been manufactured for the 1982/83 fall and winter season. It contains three strains of influenza which are likely to cause disease in the U.S. (A/Brazil; A/Bangkok, B/Singapore). It should be noted that even if a person received influenza vaccine last year, he should be revaccinated because the protective effects of the vaccination usually last no more than one year.

Most people have no side effects from vaccine, although some experienced redness and swelling at the injection site for 1-2 days. Fever and muscle aches have occurred in less than 4% of the recipients. There is a possibility that allergic reactions could occur but they are rare.

Those people for whom vaccine is recommended should contact their physician or source of medical care to receive the vaccine.

The Palm Beach County Health Department will be providing vaccine to Health Department clinic patients but will not be providing vaccine to the general public. For more information about influenza vaccine, please contact your private physician or the Palm Beach County Health Department (996-1600).

Gove sponsors deaf workshop

BELLE GLADE - A workshop for the hearing impaired was held Oct. 27 in the Exceptional Child Education Center (ECE) at Gove Elementary.

Linda Bassin, a representative of Medico Surgical Supply Company in North Miami Beach, demonstrated the TTY Communication System to the group of students, parents and teachers on hand for the workshop.

Mrs. Bassin said the TTY communicator allows people with severe communication handicaps, those who are deaf, hearing impaired and speech impaired, to communicate through the use of the telephone, typewriter system.

As the communicating person types, their words travel across an electronic readout display and are simultaneously transmitted through the telephone by total beeps and appear in large green letters on the other TTY.

Mrs. Bassin told the group that the telephone company offers discount rates for long distance calls to users of the TTY System "because they recognize that it takes longer to type a phone conversation than to talk."

Hearing Impaired Instructor for Lake Shore and Gladeview Elementary, Sandy Cook, demonstrated

Mrs. Echols is Aloette franchiser

BELLE GLADE—Mrs. Renza (Marjorie) Echols is a young Belle Glade matron with a new "cause" these days. She is noted for being much involved in projects for the community good; March of Dimes, Girls Home in Melbourne, Hacienda Girls Ranch, Association for Retarded Children, to name a few. To collect funds for such charities she has staged art shows, pet shows, bazaar, luncheons, walkathons, and she has been successful.

But two years ago, Marjorie attended an at home beauty show which, she says, "changed my life". She was one of the group of women who met in invitation at a neighbor's home where they were given a demonstration in the art of cosmetics. She said she watched some amazing transformations from plain Jane to beauty and that evening she also realized that there was a business in which she could, in time, be counted as an economic asset to herself and her family.

That evening was two years ago. Today, she holds the south Florida Franchise for the company whose products were demonstrated that evening, Aloette Incorporated, a company which depends primarily on a formula based on the healing and nurturing properties of the Aloe Vera plant.

Two weeks ago, she moved her business headquarters from her living room that served as an office & shipping headquarters, to 1407 West Avenue A.

A full time secretary and shipper and a direct telephone line to West Palm Beach are now added.

She travels the highways to group meetings and sales in instruction sessions. Twice each week she drives to West Palm Beach to present makeup and sales techniques to other women who are interested in the business concept which allows them to be involved in an enterprise which can be extremely lucrative and which not demand a sacrifice of family relationships.

The entire Echols family has become involved in Aloette. Renza, husband and father of their three children, is in the plumbing business. Mrs. Echols said for a considerable time his attitude towards what he adjudged to be his wife's latest whim, was one of indulgence. But when the whim proved to be a long term and growing financial success he too became involved and now handles the financial details.

The children, Robert, 17, Phillip, 15, and Didi, 12, work at helping with chores which range from shipping preparation of the cosmetics to message takers and errand runners.

Robert is contemplating college next year and had, until he became involved in "Mom's business" planned to major in liberal arts. Now, he will major in business management instead.

Because of the basic skin care formula of Aloette products such as a scrub for acne and softening emollients, ideal for after shave, teenagers and their fathers are customers. Last year, 106,000 men were counted.

Aside from the obvious monetary advantages of the home sales approach, Mrs. Echols points out that several other very satisfying aspects of her work are appealing to women.

"Women want something; something to express themselves on many levels, and these days, many need to supplement the family income."

"Aloette is not a pyramid system as is the usual home based sales business, she said. In pyramid systems, the sales person buys the company's products at wholesale and sells them at their own risk at retail," she added. Instead, Aloette spends $1,500.00 on each new recruit. This will include sales training tapes and manuals, a large cosmetic demonstration kit and hours of coaching and sales training, said Mrs. Echols. There is no cost to the consultant, she added. "For those who stay, the possibilities for big earnings are limited only by themselves," Echols said.

Custom Design and Ornamental Iron offers beauty, security for home

BELLE GLADE -- Custom Design and Ornamental Iron, located at 901 W. Canal St. North has been in business for over three years. They moved to their new location in June of this year.

Owners Les and Maria Smook have lived in Belle Glade for eight years. They have a daughter, Elizabeth, 8 years old.

Les Smook is a native of Florida and a former employee of Hollingsworth & Shoens. His wife is a native of Cuba and came to the United States in 1960. She said she is now an American citizen and is proud to be.

The Smook's said the business started as a part-time hobby in their garage. Mrs. Smook's father, Rafael Guevara, owned a similar business in Cuba and helps out in the business designing and advising.

Other employees include Perry Warren, a native of Miss. who came to Belle Glade when he was three years old. He has been working at Custom Design and Ornamental Iron since it opened. Jose Chiong is a part-time worker who is originally from Cuba. He helps out in the shop.

Some of the items Custom Design and Ornamental Iron sells are security doors, railings, burglar bars, ornamental castings, aluminum or iron, and ornamental furniture. The Smooks hope to expand in the future to cover the entire lake area.

Gators clinch district by shutting out Benjamin

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE The Glades Day School Gators Friday, October 23, shut out rival Benjamin 300 and won a trip to the regional playoffs later this month.

This will be the second time in three years that the Gators have gone to postseason play. In 1980, they won the 1A state championship.

"We're real pleased with it," said Coach Byron Walker. "We did a lot of things real well. We scored points with our offense. Of course, anytime we beat Benjamin we've got to be real pleased. We're just happy to have it wrapped up. If nothing else, we're district champions. I think we proved we deserve that."

The Benjamin Buccaneers never managed to get anything going during the game. Gator interceptions reversed the momentum four times.

In the first quarter, the Gators pulled to within 30 yards, but couldn't continue the drive, so Mike Schlechter was called on. His 34 yard field goal put the Gators up to 30.

In the second quarter, Glades Day extended the lead to ten points when Quarterback Paul Garcia ran the ball in from the 28 yard line.

The Gators continued moving the ball and stopping the Buc's threats in the second half. The drive to the one yard line in the third and Dave Haynes took the ball over. Schlechter hit his extra point to drive the score up to 170.

The Gators weren't through. The defense scored 12 points in the last quarter. Robby Carter intercepted a Jim Brogan pass and ran it back 50 yards for the touchdown. Schlechter hit his last extrapoint to drive his total on the night up to six points.

Moments later, Haynes intercepted a pass deep in Buc territory and ran it in from three yards out for the TD.

When the game ended, Glades Day had earned a 300 victory and a trip to regional.

Walker said he and the coaching staff had done some advance scouting of the Buccaneers that indicated the game may be a blowout, but the shutout still surprised him.

"I expected it to be a little closer," he said. "I expected Benjamin to score a few points."

The victory was the Gators' fourth in a row.

"We're getting better every week. On the coaching staff, we knew all along that we had a good ball club. But the kids' confidence wasn't what it should be after those first couple losses. We can be in contention for the state championship, we're confident of that now," said Walker.

"We still have a tough time ahead of us," he said, citing the remainder of the schedule against Frostproof, district opponent Moore Haven and 2A district 13 champion Melbourne Central. "We can't afford to have any overconfidence."

"We're very pleased. We're just strong and getting into the playoffs and possibly making another dent in Florida high school football history."

To finish the year real strong, the Gators have to first get past number one ranked Frostproof this Friday at Frostproof.

Walker said he is looking for Frostproof to be "big and very aggressive."

He said Frostproof has a strong running game and he expects the Gators to force it to a passing game which isn't as strong this year as in the past.

"The game in Frostproof will be a game that will be decided by who makes the least crucial mistakes, which all games are decided by. At least all games between equal teams. We'll be working on not making those mistakes this week. We want to avoid those kinds of mistakes like turning over the ball."

We'll be working on not making those mistakes this week. We want to avoid those kinds of mistakes like turning over the ball."

Mace Sod buries Legion

By JEFF BROWN

BELLE GLADE Mace Sod scored the winning run against the American Legion in the first inning, but went on from there to deal out a 222 run in five innings Thursday, October 23.

Jim Herring opened the Mace attack with a single to left. He advanced to second on a flyout to left by Mike Underwood.

Gary Bradshaw flew out to center to advance Herring to third, and it looked like American Legion would get out of the inning.

Sonny Stein singled into right to drive in Herring, and an error on American Legion's pitcher L. Collins advanced him to second.

Steve Richey singled out into center to drive in Stein and an error on third baseman Charles Bishop allowed the next batter, Brandon Markham, to reach second while Richey scored from second.

In the bottom of the first, the American Legion batters went down in order.

Mace Sod widened its lead to four in the top of the second when Greg Chancey doubled into right with two out. Pope McMullen followed with a single into center to drive in Chancey.

Herring tried to keep the rally alive with a single into right that advanced McMullen to second, but Underwood flew out to left for the second consecutive at bat.

American Legion left two base runners stranded in the second. Mace Sod's pitcher Hillyer issued a two out walk to Hollon who reached second on a single into center by G. Hernandez.

In the bottom of the fourth, American Legion broke the shutout.

S. Woodward singled into right center and T. Herring walked. F. Klien ended up on first and Woodward on third after Klien tapped a ground ball to second for the force out by the shortstop.

R. Moss drove in Woodward with a sacrifice fly to left and Klien scored when Hollon hit a single into centerfield.

Mace Sod sent 16 batters to the plate to score 12 runs on 10 hits to put the game away in the top of the fifth.

Steve Richey, Markham, Sullivan, and Echave picked up back-to-back hits to open the inning.

Hillyer then reached on an error, Chancey got his third hit of the night and McMullen reached safely for the third time after making contact to keep the attack going.

Herring flew out to right for the first out and Underwood reached on an error by the centerfielder. Bradshaw also reached on errors and Richey, Markham and Sullivan hit safely for the second time in the inning.

Echave and Hillyer ended the inning with fly-outs to centerfield.

Raiders drop game 30-14

BELLE GLADE The Glades Central Community School Raiders will celebrate homecoming Friday night. The Raiders will take a 62 second into Friday's game against Fort Pierce Central.

Miss Yvonne M. Gushnie, Miss Glades Central High School and her royal court, Miss Diane Michelle Jackson, Carmen Hernandez, Margaret McBride and Kerria L. Hicks will preside over the homecoming festivities.

Miss Gushnie was crowned Miss GCCH Tuesday night at the annual Coronation of Campus Royalty held in the Glades Central Gym.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie C. McDonald will serve as the parade marshalls. The parade will start at 3 p.m., Friday, lining up on 4th Street in front of the GCCH Gym.

When the Raiders march on the field Friday they will be trying to bounce back from a loss suffered at the hand of the Suncoast Chargers last Friday night.

The Chargers handed the Raiders their second loss of the season. The 3014 Suncoast West victory pushed the Chargers record to 61.

The Raiders, which hadn't allowed a point in its last three games while outscoring their opponents 1060, managed to lead at half time by a score of 63.

The Chargers dominated the second half. The Raiders defense appeared overwhelmed by the unexpected running attack of Quintin Lynum. Lynum rushed for 114 yards, and three touchdowns, and all but 19 of the yards were gained in the final two quarters.

Lynum's first touchdown, on a 3 yard run just three minutes into the second half, gave the Chargers a 106 lead and got the home team rolling.

The touchdown came as a result of a crucial Raider miscue.

On a fourthdown play after being stopped at their own 23 on the first drive of the second half, Raiders punter Randy Rutledge couldn't reach the snap from center, which flew over his head and landed in the end zone. He recovered the ball and managed to run it to the fouryard line. Lynum scored three plays later.

On the next play from scrimmage, Glades Central Quarterback Eric Smith threw his second interception, this one right to Suncoast's John Goldwire at the Glades 31.

After a series of plays, Quarterback James Hunter gave the Chargers a 166 lead on a run from there.

A 99 yard drive, ending on a 21 yard touchdown pass to Lynum from Hunter, put the Chargers ahead 226.

The Chargers would score against and the The Raiders would add 8 points in the final quarter. Rutledge, the Raider's leading ground gainer, was held to 67 yards.

Eric Smith tossed his 11th scoring pass of the year against Suncoast to put him ahead of Darryl Richard of Palm Beach Gardens.

Rutledge is the area's second leading scorer with 66 points. Alonzo Jefferson id first with 102 points. Alonzo Allen, of Glades Central is third in the county in touchdown receptions with five.

Youth to participate in state gymnastics meet

BELLE GLADE A local 12 year old girl will be participating in the Florida United States Gymnastics Federation tournament in Jacksonville later this month.

Didi Echols qualified for the state meet at the sectional tournament in Lake Worth last month. She came in second in the uneven parallel bars events, third in the floor exercises, fifth in the balance beam events and fourth all around in the sectional tournament.

Echols is a class three gymnast studying with the Chace Academy of Gymnastics in Riviera Beach. She has previously won ribbons at Fort Lauderdale and Naples.

At Fort Lauderdale on October 12, she won two eighth place ribbons for vault and uneven parallel bar performances and a 10th place ribbon for floor exercises.

In an earlier event at Naples, she placed sixth in the balance beam.

To qualify for states, a gymnast must score 32 points in the sectionals.
